

Dear Parents,

We are working to create a print rich learning environment! We ask that you please help us by allowing your child to bring examples of environmental print to our classroom.

Environmental print consists of labels, signs, and logos that are easily recognizable. These items can be found in your home and do not require any additional cost to you. Examples would include soup labels, cereal boxes, packaging materials, bags, cartons, etc. We will use these items to help us bridge the gap between functional print and our beginning stages of reading. Please send in manageable-sized signs and labels that will fit into your child's backpack.

Thank you for assisting us with this exciting project!

You can use the environmental print samples you receive from your students to create a collage or a class book. Prompt pages for an environmental print class book are included in this packet along with the parent letter.

Make sure to display your collection to show all of the items your students can already read!

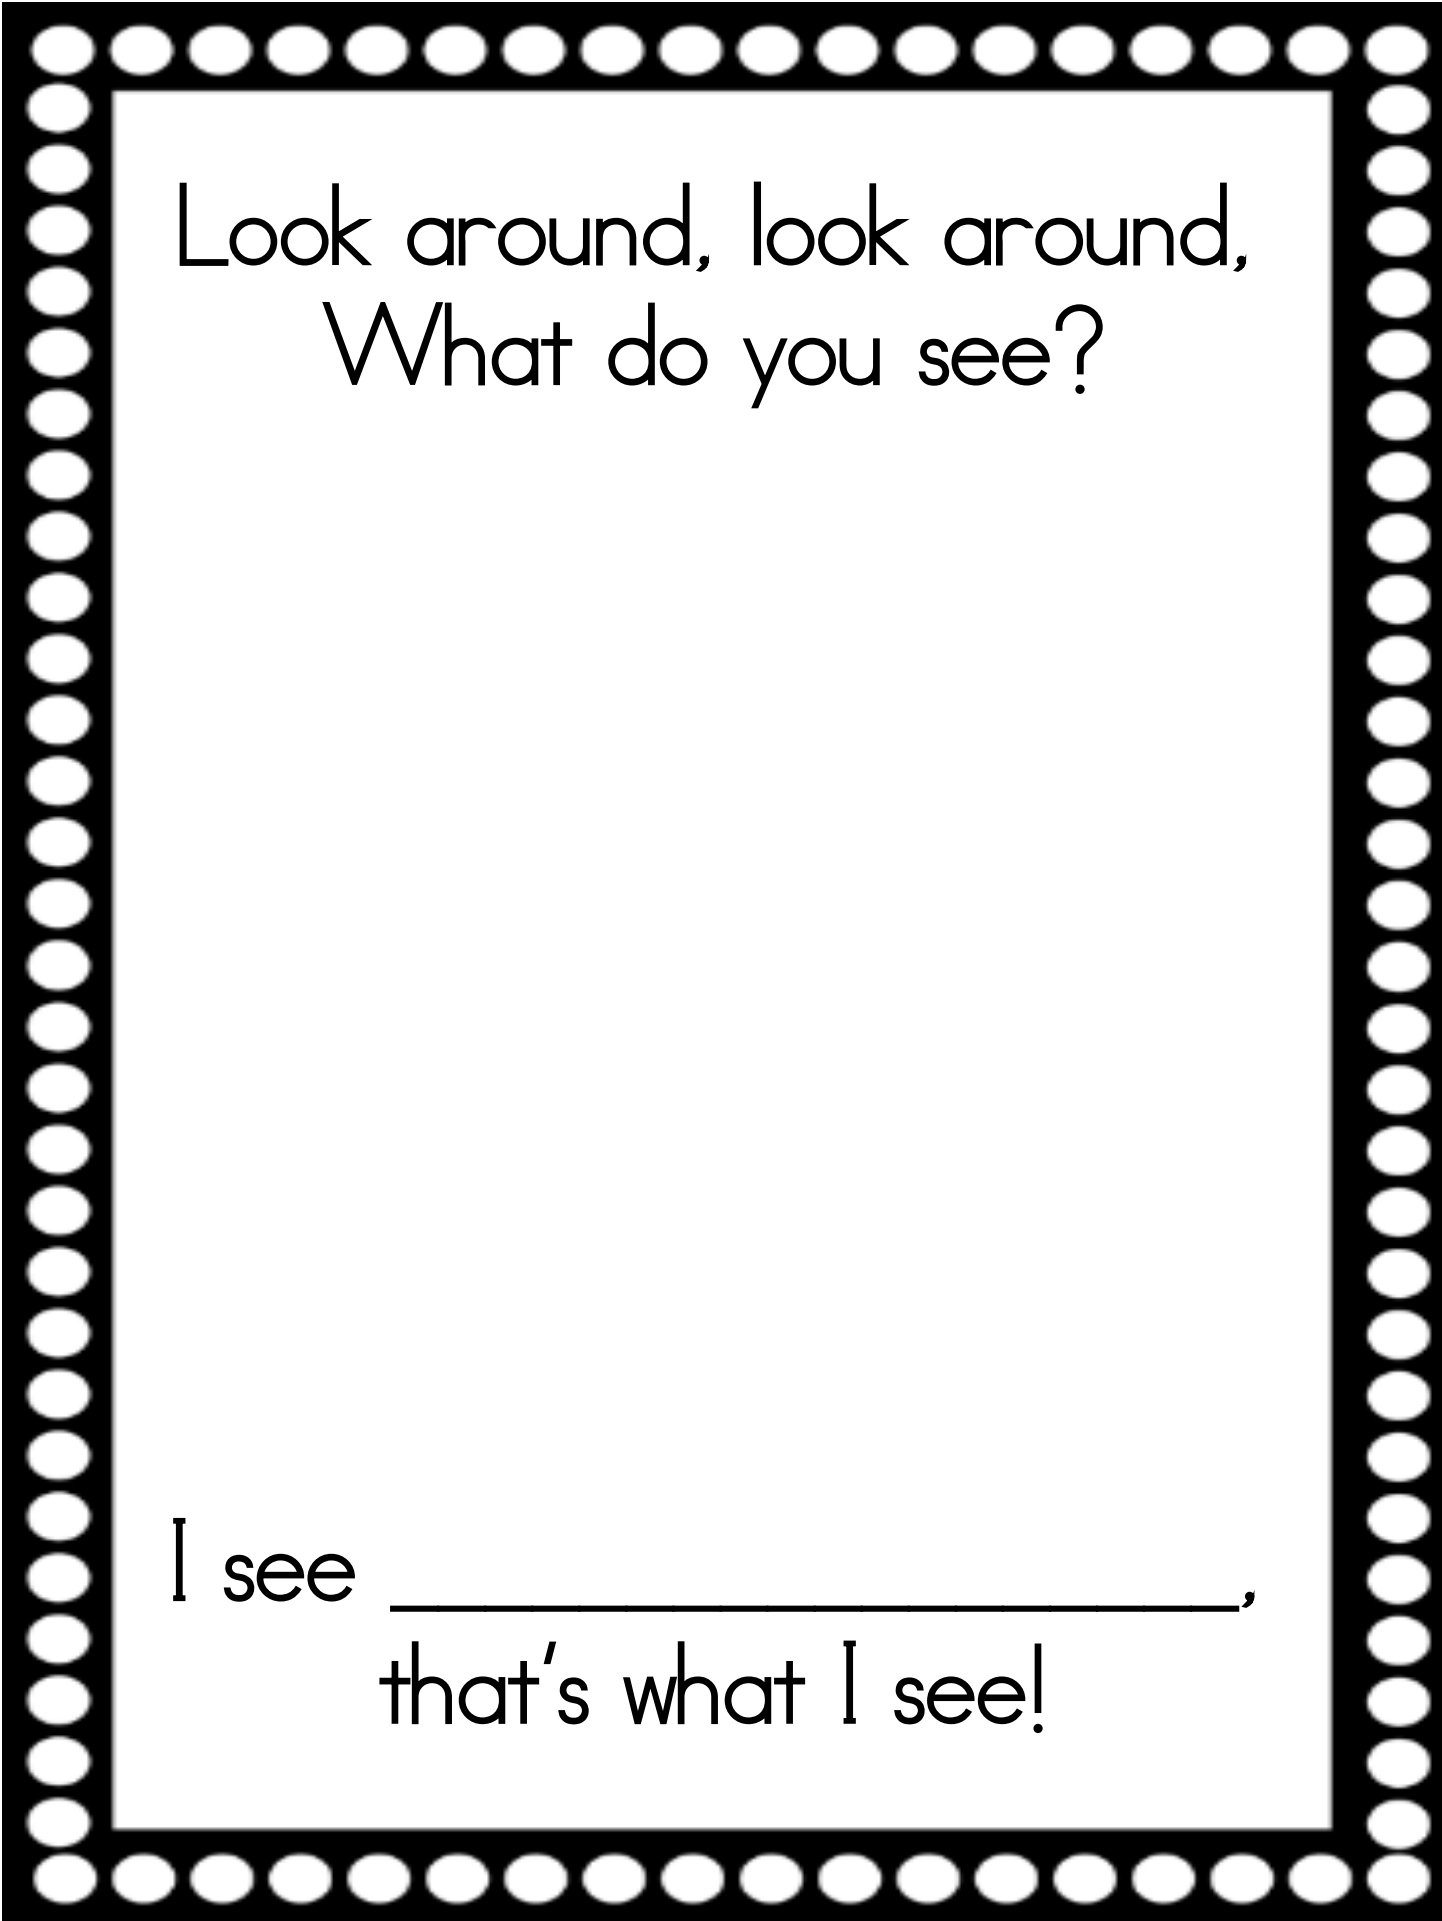

Stop by my blog for more free products and ideas for your classroom.

Look around, look around,
What do you see?

I see _____
in front of me!

Look around, look around,
What do you see?

I see _____,
that's what I see!

Look around, look around,
What do you see?

We see

_____ ,
that's what we see!

Look around, look around,
What do you see?

_____ sees

_____,

that's what she sees!

Look around, look around,
What do you see?

_____ sees

_____,'

that's what he sees!
